

Innovative School-Based Interventions

for Students with Significant Emotional and Behavioral Issues

May 14, 2019; 9 am - 3 pm
at Foundation for Educational Administration Conference Center
12 Centre Drive, Monroe, NJ 08831

Presenters: Michael Selbst, Ph.D., BCBA-D (Director of Behavior Therapy Associates); Richard Goldstein, M.A. (Principal of Lakewood Middle School); Scott Horowitz, Ed.D. (Assistant Principal of Lakewood Middle School); Deborah Rolston, M.A. (Assistant Principal of Lakewood Middle School)

Despite school personnel's best efforts to provide effective educational programming, students who present with significant emotional and behavioral issues often struggle to benefit from such programming. Moreover, these same students' mental health issues, disruptive behavior, and/or aggressive behavior can significantly impact others' learning and safety and can negatively affect the school's climate. Additionally, punitive measures are often ineffective and may escalate problems. A systematic approach must encompass more individualized, intensive, comprehensive, and sustained interventions. There should be multi-tiered interventions to provide universal support (tier 1) to minimize and prevent the occurrence of new behavioral and emotional issues, and interventions to address those individuals who are at-risk (tier 2) and those who present with the most imminent challenges (tier 3).

This interactive workshop will discuss these challenges and best practices for intervention. Participants will have the opportunity to learn how one school is implementing a comprehensive set of concrete, effective interventions implemented within a public school district: school-based mental health services, Positive Behavior Support in Schools (PBSIS), innovative educational programming for students with significant social-behavioral issues, after-school programming, student ambassadors, staff mentoring of students, guest speakers, social-emotional learning, gang and violence prevention training, parent workshops, etc. This has increased student attendance, decreased discipline problems and referrals, increased academic performance, and improved school culture and climate.
